To whom it may concern,

As the Vice President, Mid-Atlantic Operations, for P.J. Dick Incorporated, a large Federal and Commercial construction company, I am tasked with the mission to deliver high quality solutions for our clients, and to expand our market share in this region. An important key to my success is to have on my team subcontractors that understand teamwork, are outstanding masters of their craft, and can ensure we can all get to the finishing line together as a winning team. When it comes to mechanical solutions, Doyle Systems is my choice as the ideal partner that goes out of their way to ensure P J Dick maintains its competitive edge. Not only have I relied on Chris Doyle to deliver on highly successful design-build projects, but more recently we have engaged the company as consultants on a highly complex government project for a large 24x7 facility. To make sure that we can service our clients, I demand high standards of integrity, expertise, loyalty, and the ability to deliver under demanding conditions. Doyle Systems meets these expectations and more.

Sincerely,

Robert C, Krueger, P.E.
V.P. Mid-Atlantic Ops
